

IN THE SPECIFICATION:

In the Office Action mailed February 27, 2009, the Examiner requested correction of the Specification in two particulars. One, the Examiner required corrections to the Specification to add section headings; and two, the Examiner required a Substitute Specification with lines that were double spaced on good quality paper. Being filed herewith is a Substitute Specification that adds section headings and that is now doubled spaced on good quality paper. Applicant's undersigned counsel affirmly states that no new matter has been added in the Substitute Specification, the changes thereto being limited to those identified above, with one additional change addressed below.

Applicant has also proposed a change to the title of the Application by replacing the word "charcuterie" with its English translation "cooked meat." The Examiner will please note that the term "cooked meat," and not "charcuterie," is recited in the claims of the application, as originally filed.
